15 Students To Entertain Handicapped

Members of SIU's Council for the Arts will give the annual entertain handicap and retarded children at the Little Grassy Lake Camp at 7:30 p.m. today.

According to Sally Schaefer, a spokeswoman for the Council, some 15 students, mostly special education majors, will present a hootenanny-type program for the children.

Miss Schaefer said a similar program was presented at the camp two weeks ago for a previous group of youngsters and that it met with considerable success.

"It is strictly an amateur type of performance," Miss Schaefer said, "but it went over so well the last time that we decided to repeat the performance again for the new group of children.

The performance will be given in the Little Grassy dining hall, Miss Schaefer said.

Dog Found, Girl Won't Need Shots

A girl bitten by a dog on Lookout Point at Crab Orchard Lake won't have to take the painful antirabies shots, a daily spokesman said Thursday.

An appeal for information about the dog which appeared in Tuesday's Daily Egyptian was seen by the roommate of the student who owned the dog.

The owner contacted the family of the child, who was visiting relatives in West Frankfort. They came to Carbondale and identified the animal as the one that had bitten the child.

The dog had been a resident of the family, so the child did not require the treatment.

"The family is extremely grateful to the Egyptian for helping it locate the dog's owner," the spokesman said.

ELIZA'S DREAM — Mary Jo Smith, in the lat­ tered dress of a London flower peddler, dreams of being transformed into a lady. Miss Smith in SIU's "Eliza Doolittle" in the production of "My Fair Lady," which opens a three-day run tonight in Shryock Auditorium.

Opening Tonight For Three Runs

The Summer Music Theater's production of the famous musical "My Fair Lady" opens at 8 p.m. today in Shryock Auditorium.

Repeat performances will be at 8 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Mary Jo Smith will sing the leading role of Eliza Doolittle in the musical adaptation of George Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion.

Bob Meyer is featured in the role of Henry Higgins, the pompous Englishman who transforms Eliza from a gut­ terprise to a lady, and falls in love with her along the way.

Dave Davidson, a veteran of SIU dramatic and musical productions, will be Alfred P. Doolittle, Eliza's unable father.

The leading role will be William F. McHughes as Col.

Pickering, Higgins' friend and sometime aide to the transformation of Eliza; Jerry Druke as Freddy Eynsford­

Hill, a London society swain who falls for Eliza; Sarah L. Meyen as Freddy's stuffy mother; Mary Davidson as Higgins' mother.

William Taylor, associate professor of music, is musical director of the show and will conduct the 25-piece show orchestra.

Paul Shryock, principal of the DuQuoin High School, is stage director. The scenic and lighting design is by Darwin Payne of the SIU Theater Department. Jane Dak, instructor in physical education for women, is the show's choreographer; Charles Zeckler, associate professor of theater, is in charge of costume; Mary Gulliet, wife of a SIU graduate student from England, is the designer.

The musical was written by Lerner and Lowe and has one of the longest runs on Broadway in the history of American music. It is performed in dozens of foreign countries and more recently has been taken into a tour during the summer.

The star is the original Broadway company, and Audrey Hepburn.

Harmonica Player Puts Music Into Training of Peace Corps

Music isn't a part of the official training Peace Corps volunteers generally receive. But if one of them has his way the trainees from SIU may be the most musical Peace Corp­ sen yet.

He is Chris Cohen, an energetic and enthusiastic young man who graduated from Michigan State University.

Already Cohen has taught some 19 of his fellow trainees how to play the harmonica. He's so enthused about it he even skipped lunch to hike out to the Murdale Shopping Center Thursday to get more instruments.

Cohen's repertoire consists of 200 songs, and he hopes to teach his fellow trainees a goodly portion of them before they are shipped out to Niger and Senegal later this summer.

"If you think that will be a nice thing for each of the trainees to take along with them to Africa," he explained.

Of course, giving lessons isn't always easy. Chris and his fellow trainees have a 14-hour a day schedule, and they haven't been fitted into their spare time. Cohen insists that he isn't a professional—it's just a pastime with him. After his year with the Peace Corps he is over he plans to enter school.
Linda Laswell Representing SIU in Miss Illinois Contest

Miss Laswell, an SIU sophomore from Henderson, Ky., is representing SIU today in the Miss Illinois contest at Aurora.

Miss Laswell was second runner-up in the Miss Southern Illinois contest this spring. She was chosen by the Student Council to represent SIU when the winner, Joan Yake, and the runner-up, Laurie Brown, were unable to make the trip. She is scheduled to make her final appearance in the preliminaries today, when she will take part in the talent section and the personality interview with the judges.

The finalist will be selected Saturday and Miss Illinois crowned Saturday night. A member of Alpha Gamma Delta social sorority, Miss Laswell was the 1963 Greek Candidate for Homecoming Attendant and is a member of Angel Flight, the women's auxiliary to AFROTC.

During the talent portion of the Miss Illinois Contest, Miss Laswell will present a pantomime to the Fanny Brice number, "I'm an Indian." She is majoring in home economics.

Johnson Draws Profile of Veep, Says He Hasn't Made Decision

WASHINGTON—President Johnson said Thursday he would want the Democratic vice-presidential nominee to be attractive, while he was speaking at a progressive with a compensatory consideration for the welfare of the people—but "I've made no decision" on the choice.

The President told a suddenly called news conference: "There will still be people being considered."

He mentioned no names. In a session ranging over a wide assortment of subjects, Johnson said:

Economy--Economic and financial conditions are bright but his administration still is looking toward the future and giving a close look to headed off any renewed wage-price spiral or any slowdown in the economy, he conferred on these and kindred matters.

Nuclear Tests--A year ago a nuclear test-ban agreement was signed and now has more than 100 nations adhering to it.

OAS--The inter-American system, the President said, "made it abundantly clear that the hemispher will not tolerate aggression by subversion," in a final resolution adopted by the Organization of American States.

Federal Jobs--For the first time in its history the Defense Department civilian employees number below the one-million mark.

The senator had been bedridden since April 13 in which he tried to look in favor of the civil rights bill.

Engle's political career began in 1942 when he was elected to fill the Senate seat of the late George M. Davis. He served continuously for 12 years in the Senate.

Peking Reds Firmly Oppose Communist Showdown Meeting

TOkyo--Communist China told Soviet Russia Thursday it will "never take part in any international meeting" that will split the international Communist movement.

The Chinese Communists are "firmly opposed to a schematic meeting" convened by leaders of the Soviet Communist party, the Chinese declared.

Peking's refusal to attend a showdown meeting of the world's Communist parties was contained in a letter dated July 28 from the Central Committee of the Chinese Communist party to the Soviet Communist party. Contents of the letter were monitored in Tokyo from a broadcast by the New China News Agency.

Moscow has been reported preparing to send invitations next week to 26 Communist parties for a meeting to prepare for a world conference on the issues involved in the Chinese-Soviet split.

The 26 parties invited were those which served on the drafting committee that drew up the Moscow Declaration of 1946. This declaration, supposed to have been a charter for action for the world Communist movement, is one of the key points in the dispute. Both the Chinese and the Russians claim to have been faithful to it and accuse each other of violating it.

Presumably Red China was to one of the 26 invited, along with all other Communist parties now ruling in their own nations and a majority of the big parties in Italy, France, Japan and Indonesia. Basically, the Red Chinese oppose the current policies ofPremier Khrushchev which are compared as "radical as providing time for the Soviet Union to develop economically as a prelude to spreading communism around the world. Then China demands more aggressive policies of the Soviet Union."

Moratorium Called On Demonstrations--For the demonstration in Washington, D.C., to protest the Vietnam War, the Senate passed a resolution calling for a moratorium on all demonstrations in the capital. The vote was 79-0.

King made the comment at the end of a speech at which he curtailed mass demonstrations in their civil rights campaigns.

The unimpeachable vote is misleading in a sense, he said, because it had little to do with the House of Representatives after his election to Congress in 1956. Engle's political career began in 1942 when he was elected as district attorney of Tehama County. In 1942 he was elected to the California State Senate and in August 1943 was elected to fill a seat in the U.S. House left vacant by the death of Rep. Harry Englebright.

Inhumanity on Veranda

Playwright's Genius Radiates in 'Iguana'

Even for the heart uneducated to the vital energy of the Williams playas, Williams's Southern Playmakers' production of "Iguana" car ries one across the barriers of time, place and personality to understand ourselves better.

Set on the Costa Verde Hotel's veranda, the play depicts Williams' obsessive interest in the investigation of varieties of man's inhumanity to man.

Surely, the story concerns the Rev. T. Lawrence Shannon, hailed with the absence of ladies at the hotel operated by a recent widow. Enter Miss Jennifer Fellowes, another long-lost 97-year-old grandfather, a turtle-lover who created a sculptur made of sticks ceeuddled together, and knitting rings.

The simple explanation is that in winter a person comes inside and removes his sun glasses. It takes off his wrap and forges in, taking his sun glasses inside and renoves his sun glasses. On a rainy day the house takes off his wrap and forges in, taking his sun glasses inside and renoves his sun glasses. It has been pretty hot this summer.

Many early classes may have prompted some student to prepare his best lines for a class discussion. This is the obvious explanation for the lost percolator and toaster. But what did he need an egg beater for? Not only one, but two--and a bag of groceries, a guitar, a turtle and left it wandering the building.

One faculty member is truly the absent-minded professor. He misses his briefcase containing examinations which he had not yet given. The janitor comments, "I bet some student would have been happy to do this thing.

When a girl lost her wedding ring, the problem was compounded by a forgetful janitor. When he found it, he took it home and forgot it. Between the time that the ring was lost and the time that the janitor turned it in, the girl made a frantic search of the campus.

The surprising thing is that some relatively valuable things are never claimed. One example is a leather coat that is almost new, and an embroidered jacket with the inscription "Okanawa." The claimed items are kept for a year and then donated to the Salvation Army or other charities.

LOST AND FOUND – If it's been lost, it may be found at the lost and found desk at the University Center.

‘Lost and Found’ on Campus Makes Weird List of Articles

By Robert F. Weld

It is a widely accepted belief that lost things tend to be forgotten. With their minds filled with profound ideas, they simply ignore mundane things like overripe fruits and glasses.

This is true, if so, a center of learning with many scholarly people, would also be a center of absent mindedness. If one student is absent mindedness on the SUU campus, he will probably conclude that the people here are unreasonable.

If you have the following articles, you can have them by calling at the information desk: a bottle of mouth wash, a package of pipe tobacco, a baby's teething toy, and book of rules for safe driving. The information desk has restored the following items to the rightful owners: a bag of groceries, a guitar, an ROTC uniform, an abstract sculpture made of sticks connected together, and knitting rings.

Students also forget things in library books. An anonymous letter left in a library book said, "I give my heart to you in little pieces. I wrote 40 pages if I had time, but I love you more than that. Do you love me or are you girls in love with another girl?"

However, most of the things left in books are quite prosaic: examinations, term papers, lecture notes.

In the bowling alley, students constantly lose pencils, cigarette lighters, keys, and other items they take from their pockets while bowling. Persons who bring their own bowling balls often forget them when they leave. Or, sometimes they mix up the University Center bowling balls with their own.

The janitors in Wham Education insist that the type of item stolen in classrooms varies with prevailing circum stances. In cold weather, jackets, scarves, and gloves are forgotten. In rainy weather, raincoats and umbrellas are left behind. During examinations, books and notebooks are misplaced. These janitors have a special dislike for persons who buy soft drinks and forget to drink them. Sooner or later they may be tipped over.

One person who came back to the Life Science Building at night to do some work took his bicycle into the building with him. Perhaps he feared theft, or perhaps he didn't like to walk down the corridor. When he went home that night, he forgot it. And one person forgot about a turtle and left it wandering about the building.

One faculty member is truly the absent-minded professor. He misses his briefcase containing examinations which he had not yet given. The janitor comments, "I bet some student would have been happy to do this thing.

Astronauts' Welfare Among Many Duties Performed by SIU Alumna in Air Force

How can astronauts manage to get needed physical exercise when cooped up for long periods in the confines of an aircraft and hampered by the weightlessness of outer space? This is one of the research problems that has engaged Maj. Pauline Potts, USAF, a physical therapist in the Air Force. She has a degree in physical therapy from the University of Colorado Medical School. When she resigned after six years, she was discharged with the rank of captain. After a year as a civilian therapist at the Rehabilitation Center Hospital in Berkeley, Calif., she reentered military service, this time the Air Force, which allowed her to retain the rank she had achieved in the Army.

Maj. Potts has been stationed in a half dozen or more military bases throughout this country and in Puerto Rico. She expects to complete her studies this summer, then to report to Eglin Air Force Base Hospital in Florida, where she will be in charge of physical therapy services.
