THE COMET
BY CHARLES SLOAN REID

Celestial migrant, taught of endless force
The wanderlust of an untold desire,
Eternal urge that fills a wanderer's course
With trailing flames of friction-lighted fire,

Your journeyings command so wide a sweep,
Man's sense of distance finds no unit clear
To mind's instruction—trails ethereal keep
The secret of your passage far and near!

What grand extremes your visitations know,
Your tropic and your frigid zones of space!
What meteor tides upon your sky-ways flow!
What planets flag your strange, erratic race!

Projectile sun, or weird celestial toy,
A boomerang from some exploded sphere
That force may sunder yet cannot destroy,
While atoms find ethereal media clear,

Grand spectacle of Earth's unclouded night,
You held man's gaze in undivided awe,
When, marvelling upon your giddy flight,
He sensed the strangeness of celestial law.
THE AMERICAN PHILOSOPHY OF EQUALITY

By T. V. Smith

Equality, in its present vague status, has lost much of the meaning that the founders of this country attached to it. In this book Mr. Smith has set out, in effect, to rescue from oblivion whatever truth the earlier doctrine contained.

"Professor Smith writes as a philosopher and an historian. His reasoning is sound, his information accurate and his style clear and virile. The volume is a notable contribution to our political philosophy."—The New Republic.

THE DEMOCRATIC WAY OF LIFE

By T. V. Smith

T. V. Smith in this book re-endows "Liberty, Equality, Fraternity,"—slogans of a goal that has never been reached—with some of the spirit of the days when they were magic words. Here is a brilliant commentary upon democracy as a way of life.

AESTHETICS OF THE NOVEL

By Van Meter Ames

The fact that there is a decided relationship between literature and philosophy has been singularly ignored by past writers. Mr. Ames, believing that literary criticism cannot be sound unless it is placed on a philosophical basis, in this book has successfully correlated both subjects. He has studied the novel by means of a theory of aesthetics which he has worked out from the general standpoint of pragmatism.

SCIENCE PROGRESS
A QUARTERLY REVIEW OF SCIENTIFIC THOUGHT, WORK, AND AFFAIRS
Edited by Lieut.-Col. Sir RONALD ROSS

Published at the beginning of JANUARY, APRIL, JULY, OCTOBER

Each number consists of about 192 pages, contributed by authorities in their respective subjects. Illustrated. 6s net. Annual Subscription, including postage, 25s, 6d.

SCIENCE PROGRESS owes its origin to an endeavor to found a scientific journal containing original papers and summaries of the present state of knowledge in all branches of science. The necessity for such a journal is to be found in the fact that with the specialization which necessarily accompanies the modern development of scientific thought and work, it is increasingly difficult for even the professional man of science to keep in touch with the trend of thought and the progress achieved in subjects other than those in which his immediate interests lie. This difficulty is felt by teachers and students in colleges and schools, and by the general educated public interested in scientific questions. SCIENCE PROGRESS claims to have filled this want.
