because a very admirable life of Luther has just been issued by our Rev. Dr. Jacobs, in Putnam’s “Heroes of the Reformation” series, and those among us who would wish to purchase a biography of the great reformer would, in every case, be likely to prefer Dr. Jacob’s book to Freytag’s.

“I have been perfectly frank in stating my views, and, at the same time, beg to reiterate my thanks to you for sending me the book and the pleasure I have had in examining it. The generally sympathetic view of the Reformer and his work which it contains, and its scholarly and interesting presentations, on every side except the theological, render it a really valuable work.”

BOOK-REVIEWS AND NOTES.

The more our age rises above the narrowness of the traditions and the dogmatic spirit of the past, the better can we appreciate the beauty and sacredness of old institutions, customs, rituals, and even the old dogmas themselves; and not only do we learn to love the traditions of our own religion, but we can also, without animosity, comprehend the significance of other religions. An instance of this is given in Dr. Henry Berkowitz’s Kiddush (קִדּוּשׁ i. e., consecration), a booklet devoted to an explanation of the Jewish Sabbath, and setting forth its religious significance in the Jewish family life. The old orthodox Jew, when he returned home from the synagogue Friday evening, found the members of his family eagerly awaiting him, the table decked, and the house in festive appearance; he greeted his wife and children with a blessing, and then read to them that gem of Hebrew literature Esheth Hayil, the virtuous woman (Proverbs, xxxi. 10-31), who “openeth her mouth with wisdom and in whose tongue is the law of kindness.” What an idealising and ennobling influence such an institution must have upon the people who keep it!

We recommend the dainty little book of the well-known Philadelphia rabbi, not only to our Jewish, but also to our Christian, readers. It is illustrated with historical designs, such as the scroll and the candlestick, also with purely ornamental pictures. It further contains the Sabbath prayers with the music, and a few short poems and stories, selected from the Talmud and other Jewish traditions.

PRINCIPLES OF PRACTICE AND ENLIGHTENMENT OF THE SODA SECT AND THE METHOD OF PRACTISING ZAZEN. (Pages 23.)

THE SUTRA OF BUDDHA’S LAST INSTRUCTION. (Pages 19.)

These booklets are translated into English from the Japanese, and will be welcome to every one who is interested in Buddhist scriptures. Buddha’s last instruction is not identical with the Paranibbana Sutta, but is a later elaboration of the same subject, similar in many respects, but less concise, and not as powerful as the more original and more authoritative treatment of the same subject in Pali.

The principles of practice of the Sodo sect, founded by the two Buddhist saints So and Do, are set forth in the first pamphlet, containing an orthodox view of the doctrines of Buddhism in general and the Jhana practice, called in Japanese Zazen, that is, contemplation or ecstasy, supposed to be the only way to great, calm joy. While the Western mind is not very likely to be pleased with the practice of Zazen, we find quite a number of interesting remarks among the doctrines of general Buddhism. In Chapter I. "Nirvāṇa" is contrasted with "life and death," and when we learn that life and death are Nirvāṇa itself, Nirvāṇa becomes no longer desirable. This is a mystical way of saying that Nirvāṇa is obtainable in this life, and that the calmness of a religious disposition will be sufficient to set us free from the pains of life and death. The second chapter dwells on the advantages of confession. "We are delivered and made pure from our sins by the virtue of our confession." The third chapter dwells on the reverence of the three treasures: the Buddha; the law; and the priesthood. The unity of all Buddhas is insisted upon. "Buddhas ever presiding over the great enlightenment are equal to one another, and all living beings that ever make use of it, too, are equal to the Buddhas. Then the land, grass, trees, fences, stones, of the worlds in the ten directions, perform the deeds of Buddhas . . . . This is the desire for Bodhi." The fourth chapter dwells on the necessity of benefiting others. Even if we have accumulated merits sufficient to attain to Buddhahood we must give them away to all living beings for the purpose of bringing them up to Buddhahood." Referring to a Buddhist tale, the details of which, however, are not mentioned, it is said that "Even a little girl of seven is the teacher of the four classes of men, and she is the mother of all living beings. Whether one be male or female there is no difference. The desire for benefiting others is based upon sameness." "Sympathy means sameness, self is just the same with others." A more literal translation would be: "Feeling oneself the same is not to differ from others, it is not to differ from oneself, nor to differ from others." The passage continues: "Sympathy makes us forget the distinction between ourselves and others. The sea refuses no water, so that all waters contribute to form the great sea. This is a sort of sympathy." The last chapter is on thankfulness. And in contrast to the pessimistic view of despising the body we read here: "We ought to love and esteem this life and the body since our practice brings forth that of a Buddhas, and it keeps alive the great path of all the Buddhas."

The English of both pamphlets is sufficiently good to be intelligible to English readers. It contains some misprints, which, however, are easily discovered, and will be readily corrected. Should these pamphlets be issued in a second edition we would advise the publisher first to state the name of the translator (Mr. Nukariya) as well as of the publishers in English transcription, not alone in Chinese characters (as is done in the present case), for there are only very few people in the Western hemisphere who read Chinese. Any one interested in literature of this kind had best apply to the Hansei Zashi, Tokyo, Japan, who are very active in the Buddhistic propaganda.

Mr. Horace Fletcher, in a work entitled That Last Waif, or Social Quarantine, has advanced some very practical suggestions for the ethical reconstruction of society. His text was suggested to him by an experience with a criminal waif in the streets of Chicago on a night just after the breaking out of the war with Spain; and as the prodigious extent of the social misery and slavery at our very doors dawned upon him, there came the reflexion that the same strength of purpose and thoroughness of aim which led to the freeing of Cuba, would, at one-twentieth of the cost, "free our fair land of the last vestige of the neglect which now breeds ceaseless crime." "What we are willing to do for the reconcentrados of Cuba, let us do for our own defenceless ones!" Mr. Fletcher demands organised protection for each member of society as long as he may be helpless or weak without reference to an age limit. The solution is by the day-nursery and kindergarten methods of child-care and character-building, by which "it has been proved" that at least 98 per cent. of the formerly considered hopelessly submerged stratum of society can be saved. As a plea for the "apprentice citizen," and for the principle that character-building and habit-forming institutions should be supported a fundamental bases of government, Mr. Fletcher's book is of value, and we wish a wide circulation. The proceeds of the sale are to form the nucleus of a fund for the realisation of the author's purpose. (Kindergarten Literature Co. Woman's Temple, Chicago. Pp. 279. Price, $1.50.)

That the United States enter with the New Year upon a new career with new outlooks and enlarged duties of international relations, is strongly mirrored in the calendars and New Year Cards of the Taber Prang Art Co. of Boston, Mass. Both the Christian Endeavor and the Peace calendars exhibit the coats of arms of the United States, Great Britain, Germany, India, and Japan. Russia, however, for some reason or no reason, is left out. Rudyard Kippling, to judge from his poem on the Bear as a peace advocate, may know more about it. No pun seems intended in "The Dewy April Violets," for Dewey's portrait is missing. There is a good deal of humor is "The End of the Century Girls" and "The New Woman" calendars, remotely reminding one of the Gibson girls. The Knickerbocker calendar shows the landscapes of the Hudson, and Columbia's Flowers, the various species of the Columbines, both flavored with patriotic sentiments. For lovers of birds the tasty Audubon calendar has been prepared which will be very welcome as an ornament of nurseries and kindergartens.

Count Leo Tolstoy, whose seventieth birthday has recently been celebrated, writes to a correspondent in this country urging the raising of funds to aid in the emigration of the oppressed Doukhobortai. These people—thrifty, industrious farmers, some ten thousand in number—form a Protestant sect whose tenets resemble those of the Quakers. Their only offence is their refusal, from conscientious scruples, to serve in the Russian army. For this reason they have been repeatedly exiled from one part of the empire to another, and so persecuted and maltreated by the government officials that their position in their own country has become intolerable. With much difficulty they have now obtained permission to emigrate to foreign lands, and there is urgent need of funds to enable them to take advantage of this privilege. Contributions in any amount may be sent to Isaac N. Seligman, Esq., Mills Building, New York, from whom full explanatory circulars can also be obtained.
Lectures On Elementary Mathematics
By JOSEPH LOUIS LAGRANGE
Being the Course of Lectures Delivered at the École Normale, Paris, 1795
Translated from the French by THOMAS J. McCORMACK
With a Fine Photogravure Portrait of the Great Mathematician, Notes, Bibliographical Sketch of Lagrange, Marginal Analyses, Index, etc. Handsomely Bound in Red Cloth. Pages, 722. Price, $1.00 net. (5s).

A Masterpiece of Mathematical Exposition
First Separate Edition in English or French

"I intend to recommend Lagrange's Lectures on Elementary Mathematics to the students of my course in the Theory of Equations, for collateral reading, and also to the teachers of elementary mathematics who attend my summer conferences on the Pedagogy of Mathematics. I trust that this valuable translation is but the forerunner of others in the same field by your house."—J. W. A. Young, Professor of Mathematics in the University of Chicago.

"I put the book aside for a careful and leisurely perusal, in the first rush of my return from Japan, and now have reached it, and am truly surprised at it. It makes Lagrange human and personal to me. How he knew his Euclid!"—Dr. George Bruce Halsted, President, Texas Academy of Science.

THE PROHIBITED LAND

THE TRAVELS IN TARTARY, THIBET AND CHINA

Of MM. HUC and GABET

New Edition. From the French. Two Vols. 100 Illustrations. 688 Pages. Cloth, $2.00 (10s.). Handsomely Bound in Oriental Style.

A Classic Work of Travels. One of the Most Popular Books of All Times.

Read the Following Commendatory Notices:

"The work made a profound sensation. Although China and the other countries of the Orient have been opened to foreigners in larger measure in recent years, few observers as keen and as well qualified to put their observations in finished form have appeared, and M. Huc's story remains among the best sources of information concerning the Thibetans and Mongolians."—The Watchman.

"The book is a classic, and has taken its place as such, and few classics are so interesting. It deserves to be put on the same shelf as Lane's Modern Egyptians. Recent investigations only strengthen the truth of the intrepid missionary's observations—observations which were once assumed in Europe to be sensational and overdone. These reprints ought to have a large sale. It would be a good time for the Catholic libraries to add them to their stock of works on travel. They will find that few books will have more readers than the missionary adventures of Abbé Huc and his no less daring companion."—The Catholic News.

"Our readers will remember the attempt of Mr. A. Henry Landor, the explorer, to explore the mysteries of the holy city of L'hassa, in Thibet. The narrative of the frightful tortures he suffered when the Thibetans penetrated his disguise, has been told by Mr. Landor himself. But where Mr. Landor failed, two very clever French missionaries succeeded. Father Huc and Father Gabet, disguised as Lamas, entered the sacred city, and for the first time the eyes of civilized men behold the shocking religious ceremonies of L'hassa. The complete story of their extraordinary experiences is told in the book Travels in Tartary, Thibet, and China, published by The Open Court Publishing Co., Chicago."—New York Journal.

"Fools, it is known, dash in where angels fear to tread, and there are also instances of missionaries dashing in where intrepid and experienced travellers fail. Such was the case with MM. Huc and Gabet, the two mild and modest French priests who, fifty years ago, without fuss, steadily made their untortured way from China across Thibet and entered L'hassa with the message of Christianity on their lips. It is true that they were not allowed to stay there as long as they had hoped; but they were in the Forbidden Land and the Sacred City for a sufficient time to gather enough facts to make an interesting and very valuable book, which on its appearance in the forties (both in France and England) fascinated our fathers much in the way that the writings of Nansen and Stanley have fascinated us. To all readers of Mr. Landor's new book who wish to supplement the information concerning the Forbidden Land there given, we can recommend the work of M. Huc. Time cannot mar the interest of his and M. Gabet's daring and successful enterprise."—The Academy.

"They two visited countries of which Europe was, at the time, all but absolutely ignorant, and their record struck the reading world with almost incredulous wonderment."—The Agnostic Journal.

"Has become classical. The work is still an authority on Thibetan Buddhism, and by its pleasant narration of varied adventures will always be readable."—The Dial.

BOOKS OF TIMELY INTEREST.

The War as a Suggestion of Manifest Destiny.
Our new policy of imperialism, which has always been our policy. The manifest destiny of an Anglo-American alliance for world domination. A book of the most striking present interest.

Intervention and the Recognition of Cuban Independence.
By Professor Amos S. Hershey, of the University of Indiana. Price, 25c.
The author explains the right, according to international law, of the United States to intervene in Cuba, and the bearing the Monroe Doctrine has upon such intervention. In addition, he discusses intervention from the standpoint of humanity, and reviews the history of Spanish misrule.

The Nicaragua Canal and the Economic Development of the United States.
By Professor E. R. Johnson, of the University of Pennsylvania. Price, 10c.
The essay shows what great commercial benefits the canal will bring to the United States, both by shortening the route of domestic commerce between the East and the West, and by bringing us nearer to South America, Asia, and Australia. It shows also how it will serve to develop industries, and why the canal itself should prove a paying investment for American capital.

The Nicaragua Canal and the Monroe Doctrine.
By Professor L. M. Keasbey, of Bryn Mawr College. Price, 25c.

Social Theories and Russian Conditions.
By Dr. F. Sigel, of the University of Warsaw. Price, 25c.
"Russia from the standpoint of a Russian. The author explains how Russia has developed particularly on political, social, and religious lines, and draws a comparison between her civilization and that of Western Europe and America."

Proposed Reforms of the Monetary System.
By Professor Jos. F. Johnson, of the University of Pennsylvania. Price, 25c.
A statement of the principles which must be observed in any sound reconstruction of the currency system; with a criticism of the monetary commission and Gage's plans.

A new and complete catalogue of over 230 publications on political, social, and economic topics will be sent free on application.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO DARWIN.

By DR. WOODS HUTCHINSON of the University of Buffalo. Pages, xii+241. Price, $1.50 (6s.). A collection of homiletic essays treating the crying religious and ethical problems of the day in the light of the revelations of modern science.

"Not the least of the virtues of those essays is their stimulating vigor of thought. Dr. Hutchinson owns allegiance to no school; what he gives us is plainly the outcome of earnest personal thought. Touching as he does upon matters which are still under discussion, it is inevitable that the reader should frequently disagree with him. But no amount of disagreement on minor matters can blind the impartial reader to the manifest virtues of the book as a whole; to the width of knowledge displayed, the keen desire for truth, the terse and picturesque style, the originality and independence of mind. These qualities are displayed most conspicuously in the essays on 'Love as a Factor in Evolution' and 'Lebenslust,' but are visible in all. They make The Gospel According to Darwin a book which is worthy of study by all to whom the scientific view of the problems of life possesses any interest."—The Saturday Weekly Citizen, Glasgow.

"It is in no sense the purpose of this little volume to furnish a system of ethical or religious thought, or the germ of a new religion, as perhaps its title might lead some to infer, least of all to enunciate truths which are original with, or peculiar to, its author. It is merely an attempt to get a bird's-eye view of a few of the influences affecting human hope and human happiness from the standpoint of that view of, and attitude towards, the universe, which is best expressed by the term Darwinism."—From Author's Preface.

"Is one of the most thoughtful and stimulating of recent publications.... In these pages are discussed, in frank, manly, straightforward, manner, many of the themes that are most vital to the race. .... We may not agree with all Dr. Hutchinson says, but we cannot deny the freshness and vigor of his argument, nor the force of his facts, and we shall all find in his pages very much food for profitable meditation."—The Chicago Chronicle.

History of the People of Israel

From the Earliest Times to the Destruction of Jerusalem by the Romans.

By Prof. C. H. Cornill, of the University of Breslau, Germany. Translated by Prof. W. H. Carruth. Pages, 325 + vi. Cloth, $1.50 (7s. 6d).

Not yet published in German. A fascinating portrayal of Jewish history by one of the foremost of Old Testament scholars.

An Impartial Record. Commended by both Orthodox and Unorthodox.

COMMENDATORY NOTICES:

"Many attempts have been made since Old Testament criticism settled down into a science, to write the history of Israel popularly. And some of these attempts are highly meritorious, especially Kittel's and Kent's. But Cornill has been most successful. His book is smallest and it is easiest to read. He has the master faculty of seizing the essential and passing by the accidental. His style (especially as freely translated into English by Professor Carruth of Kansas) is pleasing and restful. Nor is he excessively radical. If Isaac and Ishmael are races, Abraham is an individual still. And above all, he has a distinct heroic faith in the Divine mission of Israel." — The Expository Times.

"I know of no work that will give the beginner a more admirable introduction to the study of the history of Israel than this little volume. There is a fine discrimination of those events which are really important and an extraordinary ability in exhibiting their genetic relations. The place of Hebrew history in universal history is shown with accurate knowledge of recent archaeological discovery. The religious significance of Israel's history is appreciated to a degree that is unusual in an adherent of the radical school. It is refreshing to find Samuel regarded as more than a mere fortune-teller, David as more than a robber chief, and Solomon as more than a voluptuary. In this respect as well as in many of his historical conclusions Cornill represents a reaction against the extremes of Stade and Wellhausen. One is much struck in reading this book with the similarity of its own story to the traditional idea of the course of the history of Israel. If the author did not occasionally warn his readers against the traditional view, I doubt if the average layman would find anything that would startle him. The professional Old Testament student recognises how here and there details have been modified by criticism, but still the sweep of the narrative is the same as that to which we are accustomed. This is significant as showing how even the more radical criticism leaves untouched the main outline of the history of Israel as presented in the books of the Old Testament. The publishers are to be commended for their enterprise in securing the publication of this work in English before it appeared in German. The translation is admirably done. The book reads as if written originally in English." — The Hartford Seminary Record.

"Professor Cornill has an unusually direct and pithy style for a German, and especially a theologian, and is a master of condensation. Added to these qualities there is a strength and beauty of expression, with occasional touches of eloquence, betraying a feeling and earnestness which are perhaps the more effective because unexpected. To the student this work will not only be of interest as illustrating a method of reconstructing history, but of positive value for its scholarly use of all the results of research which throw light upon the history of Israel and its relations to other peoples. Taken in connexion with the Scripture records it becomes at many points an instructive and illuminating aid." — The Watchman.

"A good example of the cultured taste which is making history accessible to the desultory reader who lacks time or inclination, or both, for the study of ponderous tomes, may be found here. While most of us have a certain familiarity with Greek and Roman history, we question if there is anything like so widespread a knowledge of historical facts concerning the Jews, save what we remember of what we have read in the Bible." — Public Opinion.

"It will be found an excellent accompaniment to the study of the Old Testament Scriptures, written, as it is, from the dignified standpoint of the conscientious and truth-loving historian, respecting honest religious convictions, and at all times avoiding the tone of cynicism so commonly displayed at those times when historical investigation seems to conflict with the statements of avowed inspiration." — Chicago Evening Post.

TRUTH AND ERROR OR
THE SCIENCE OF INTELLECTION
By J. W. POWELL.

Pages, 423. Cloth, $1.75 (8s.). (Ready December 1.)

Important to Psychologists and Students of the Philosophy of Science.

A Highly Original Work on Psychology, dealing largely with Epistemology.

The first part of the book is a compendious exposition of the properties of matter. These properties, five in number, give rise in man to intellectual faculties, represented by five senses. There are also five faculties of emotion. The author teaches a new doctrine of judgments, and carefully analyses them in the five intellects which he calls sensation, perception, understanding, reflection, and ideation, each of these faculties being founded on one of the senses.

Intellectual errors are classified as fallacies of sensation, fallacies of perception, fallacies of understanding, fallacies of reflection, and fallacies of ideation, and a war is waged against the metaphysic of the idealists in the interest of the philosophy of science.

In the chapters on fallacies there is a careful discussion of the theory of ghosts, especially as treated in the publications of the Society for Psychical Research, and by various other authors on the same subject.

No student of the sciences can afford to neglect this book. The discussion is clear and entertaining.
